DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The use of parentheticals throughout the claims renders them indefinite. It is unclear how these further limit the claims.

The use of "e.g." is indefinite.

The use of the term "optionally" is indefinite. It is unclear how this limits the claim.

The claim is further indefinite with respect to the recitation of component "(D)". This is identified as being optional. The last paragraph of the claim seems to both require the incorporation of the composite and further limits said composite. Clarification is required.

The use of "preferably" is indefinite.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Labauze US 6,071,995 taken in view of the acknowledged prior art and further in view of Corvasce et al. US 5,672,639.

Labauze shows tire tread compositions based on functionalized diene rubber compositions, see col. 4 lines 33+. This patent further shows the incorporation of the claimed silica treated carbon black, see col. 6, lines 1+. The differences between the patent and the claimed invention are seen to be the incorporation specifically claimed functionalized SBR and the incorporation of the starch/plasticizer composite. The incorporation of the specifically claimed functionalized SBR is obvious from the generic disclosure of functionalized SBR described in the Labauze patent and the acknowledged prior art where the specifically claimed SBR is known and used in tire tread compositions, see page 5 lines 33-35 of the instant specification. The Corvasce et al. patent shows the starch/plasticizer composite used in tire tread compositions. It would be obvious to use the claimed components in combination as claimed because the ingredients are known and the properties are established.
